ABOUT FETAL ALCOHOL SPECTRUM DISORDER

An informal, interactive webinar will explore questions that can stump or confound parents and professionals. From “talking about FASD with someone who has it” to “considerations for classroom integration”, our guest expert will share her 20+ years of FASD experience to provide insight into next steps or deeper thinking.

If you have an interesting question for the webinar discussion, you can submit it in advance to jwesselingh@catulpa.on.ca or ask during the virtual chat.

Sheila Burns has a background in children's mental health, justice, women's issues, and community development. This has informed the emerging vision for FASD prevention and improved interventions in Ontario. To explain the disability and build capacity, she developed tools to help guide practice, refocus interventions, and sharpen the use of resources by clarifying the needs of individuals to their caregivers and professionals.
